RUSSIANS PUSH ATTACKS ALONG STYR-LIPA LINE

Linsingen Retreats to Save Part of Army From Envelopment

MENACE BRODY SECTOR

Boehm-Ermolli's Army May Have to Fall Back Before Slavs

The menace of a new Russian invasion of northeastern Galicia, with Lemberg as the objective, assumed substantial proportions during the last 48 hours as a result of the shattering by the Russians of the Austro-Hungarian defense in the region of the confluence of the Styr and the Lipa. The Russians crossed the Styr and carried their southward advance to the gates of the town of Berestechk, which lies only two and a half miles from the Galician bor-

The reverse was officially admitted by the Austro-Hungarian and Berlin War Offices last night.

Berestechk is of strategical importance to the Russians in their drive toward the heart of Galicia. The new advance threatens both Lemberg, the Galician capital, and Brody, halfway between Lemberg and the Volhynian fortress of Dubno. Twenty miles to the west of Berestechk lies Stojanow, the terminal of a railway running directly to Lemberg. The distance from Berestechk to Br dy is only 171/2 miles. Thus the Russians will be in a position to drive to the Galician capital from two directions as soon as they have reached the Stojanow-Lemberg Railway, due west, and the Dubno-Brody-Lemberg road, southeast.

A violent Russian offensive is in progress against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's lines on the Dwina, around Friedrichstadt, southeast of Riga, and against the positions west of

CZAR'S TROOPS PRESS UNINTERRUPTED ADVANCE: TAKE MANY PRISONERS

PETROGRAD, July 22. General von Linsingen's Austro-German army in Volhynia is again retreating, according to information that reached Petrograd today in advices from the front.

Following six days of steady attacking along the Lipa River the Germans were compelled to fall back to avoid having a big section of the army cut off and captured. By constant 'battering the Russians

General von Linsingen's army has the double task of defending Kovel from the southeastern side and also Lemberg from the northeast. The defeat of the troops opens the way for a further advance against the Galician capital from the region of Lutsk, and may also compel the retreat of the forces of General von Boehm-Ermolli from the sector of Brody. The Russians have made heavy captures of troops along the Lipa, particularly in the not yet been completed. district where the Styr flows into it. General Sakarhoff, who is commanding the Russians in Volhynia, is giving the harassed Germans and Austro-Hungarians no rest, and fighting is continuous. The great masses of fresh Russian troops which can be continually drawn up enables General Sakarhoff to maintain steady pressure. Sufficient ammunition has been accumulated

THE WEATHER

This is the time of year when we meet strange persons at summer hotels. Many of them are in a constant state of dissatis-faction. They denounce the food, the wait-ers, the rooms, and find fault with every one but themselves. They try to create the impression that they are doing the hotel a great favor by stopping there. As a result, every one around them is as miserable as possible.

The strange thing about this species of professional grouch is that he sticks to the notel despite its alleged shortcomings. He usually finds that he is not crowded with companions on the front porch. mutinous persons who make us feel hot on cool days. Their endiess harangue seems to jar the atmosphere. As a rule, even weather keeps away from them for

The Rev. Frank S. Dobbins, a Baptist clergyman and missionary, who for the last 21 years has been district secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society with offices in the American Baptist Publication Society Building, 17th and Chestnut streets, died suddenly of heart disease early today at his residence, 251

West Rittenhouse street, Germantown. Mr. Dobbins was born in Philadelphia 61 years ago. He received his early education at Girard College and afterward was graduated from Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y.

His first pastorate was the Calvary Baptist Church, where he remained four years. Immediately afterward he became pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Allentown, Pa., and thence came in the same capacity to the First Baptist Church of Frankford. Then, at his own desire, he became a missionary, and in that capacity he went to Japan, where he remained with great success in his chosen field for 21 years.

Because of his extraordinarily clear understanding of foreign mission work, he was recalled to Philadelphia to act as district secretary of the Baptist Foreign Mission Society, where he had under his direction all the foreign missionary work in Far Eastern fields.

He had occupied this important position for a little more than 20 years when he died.

Dr. Dobbins leaves a widow and two sons, one of whom is a physician in Cincinnati and the other in business in Pittsburgh. Arangements for the funeral have

SENATE FAILS TO ACT ON PLEA FOR CASEMENT

Martine Makes Vain Fight for U. S. Intercession in Behalf of Convicted Irish Knight

'BLUNDER," SAYS STONE

By a Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, July 22 .- After spending two hours, in debating the resolution introduced by Senator James E. Martine, of New Jersey, to request clemency in the case of Sir Roger Casement, convicted of treason and sentenced to be hanged, the Senate today took up the army bill without acting on the resolution. The discussion of the resolution resulted from a motion made by Senator Martine to discharge the Committee on Foreign Relations, to which his resolution had been referred, from further consideration of the measure, in order that it might be passed immediately.

Senator Martine intends to ask for a vote on his resolution early next week, and several Senators announced their intention to vote for it if the criticisms of the English courts found in the preamble are eliminated. While the Senate discussed the offenses of which Sir Roger Casement has been convicted, his sister, Mrs. Agnes Newman, of Philadelphia, sat in the gallery, dressed in black. She listened attentively to every word and discussed the points made with two of her friends who sat with her, looking down on the Senators.

Senator Stone, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said the passage of the resolution would be a "national blunder" and would do more harm than good. The State Department, he said, had been advised that representations such as Senator be offensive.

"My own idea," said Senator Nelson, of Minnesota. "is that if we don't interfere
England will commute the sentence."
Senator Williams, of Mississippi, said England would naturally resent any outside interference with its court of justice Modification of the resolution so it merely would ask for elemency for Irish prisoners without mentioning Casement's name was auggested by Senator Phelan, of California.
